Class Diagram for Payroll System

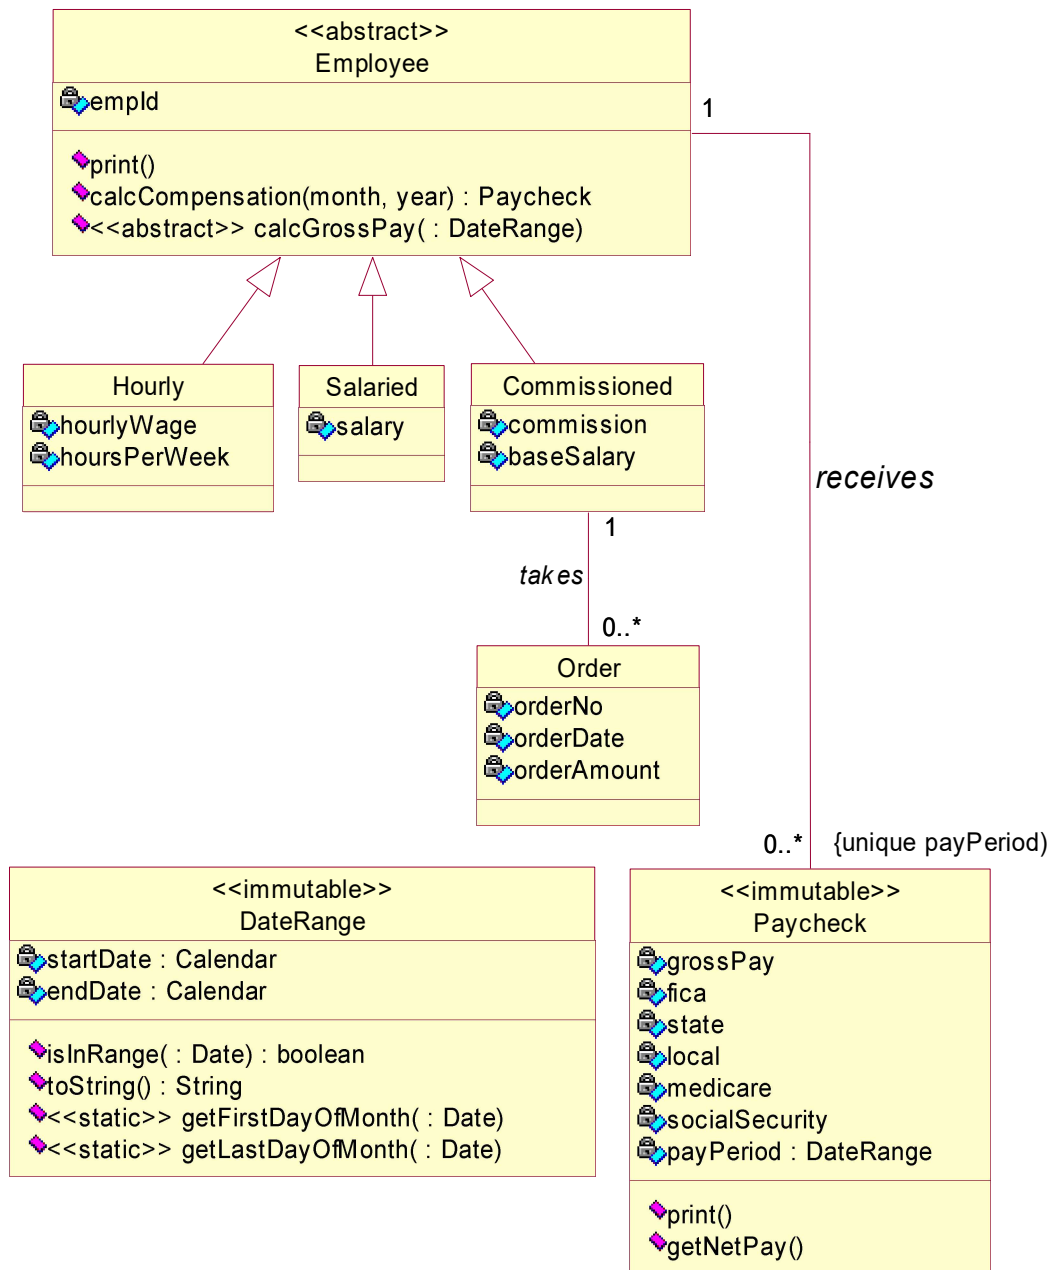

The DateRange class is provided and contains the necessary functionality to determine a pay period's start and end date. The toString() method returns the start and end date in a string.